Hi [REDACTED]

b6 -2, 3

Could you please review the attached paper for distribution? I am planning on getting it out into a journal/bulletin that interrogators and agents read but I haven't figured out where to send it yet.

Thanks,

Per our conversation, attached is a CTD policy EC I authored in 2004 that I would like to submit in conjunction with a petition for course credit for my Bureau-sponsored master's degree. The course is [redacted] offered through [redacted]. One of the course competencies I have to demonstrate is a professional-level understanding of the balance between aggressively investigating potential threats and preserving civil liberties. I believe the attached EC is a good example in support of my response, but obviously will require FBI approval to release it given that it is still an active policy. If redactions are necessary, that is not a problem.

EXPLANATION OF EXEMPTIONS

SUBSECTIONS OF TITLE 5, UNITED STATES CODE, SECTION 552

- (b)(1) (A) specifically authorized under criteria established by an Executive order to be kept secret in the interest of national defense or foreign policy and (B) are in fact properly classified to such Executive order;
- (b)(2) related solely to the internal personnel rules and practices of an agency;
- (b)(3) specifically exempted from disclosure by statute (other than section 552b of this title), provided that such statute(A) requires that the matters be withheld from the public in such a manner as to leave no discretion on issue, or (B) establishes particular criteria for withholding or refers to particular types of matters to be withheld;
- (b)(4) trade secrets and commercial or financial information obtained from a person and privileged or confidential;
- (b)(5) inter-agency or intra-agency memorandums or letters which would not be available by law to a party other than an agency in litigation with the agency;
- (b)(6) personnel and medical files and similar files the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy;
- (b)(7) records or information compiled for law enforcement purposes, but only to the extent that the production of such law enforcement records or information (A) could be reasonably be expected to interfere with enforcement proceedings, (B) would deprive a person of a right to a fair trial or an impartial adjudication, (C) could be reasonably expected to constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, (D) could reasonably be expected to disclose the identity of confidential source, including a State, local, or foreign agency or authority or any private institution which furnished information on a confidential basis, and, in the case of record or information compiled by a criminal law enforcement authority in the course of a criminal investigation, or by an agency conducting a lawful national security intelligence investigation, information furnished by a confidential source, (E) would disclose techniques and procedures for law enforcement investigations or prosecutions, or would disclose guidelines for law enforcement investigations or prosecutions if such disclosure could reasonably be expected to risk circumvention of the law, or (F) could reasonably be expected to endanger the life or physical safety of any individual;
- (b)(8) contained in or related to examination, operating, or condition reports prepared by, on behalf of, or for the use of an agency responsible for the regulation or supervision of financial institutions; or
- (b)(9) geological and geophysical information and data, including maps, concerning wells.

SUBSECTIONS OF TITLE 5, UNITED STATES CODE, SECTION 552a

- (d)(5) information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action proceeding;
- (j)(2) material reporting investigative efforts pertaining to the enforcement of criminal law including efforts to prevent, control, or reduce crime or apprehend criminals;
- (k)(1) information which is currently and properly classified pursuant to an Executive order in the interest of the national defense or foreign policy, for example, information involving intelligence sources or methods;
- (k)(2) investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes, other than criminal, which did not result in loss of a right, benefit or privilege under Federal programs, or which would identify a source who furnished information pursuant to a promise that his/her identity would be held in confidence;
- (k)(3) material maintained in connection with providing protective services to the President of the United States or any other individual pursuant to the authority of Title 18, United States Code, Section 3056;
- (k)(4) required by statute to be maintained and used solely as statistical records;
- (k)(5) investigatory material compiled solely for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility, or qualifications for Federal civilian employment or for access to classified information, the disclosure of which would reveal the identity of the person who furnished information pursuant to a promise that his/her identity would be held in confidence;
- (k)(6) testing or examination material used to determine individual qualifications for appointment or promotion in Federal Government service the release of which would compromise the testing or examination process;
- (k)(7) material used to determine potential for promotion in the armed services, the disclosure of which would reveal the identity of the person who furnished the material pursuant to a promise that his/her identity would be held in confidence.

Hi [Redacted]

I have some more things for Pre-pub review. They are:

- 1) A book: "The Future of Policing" by Joseph A. Schafer, Michael E. Buerger, Richard W. Myers, Carl J. Jensen III and Bernard H. Levin. This will be produced by a commercial publisher. Please note that I only wrote chapters two & three.
- 2) A RAND document titled "Cold Case Investigations": by Robert C. Davis, Carl J. Jensen and Karin Kitchens
- 3) An article titled "The Financing of Terrorism" by Jeffery M. Johnson and Carl

Jensen, to be published in an academic journal

4) An article titled "The Concept of Social Equilibrium and its Application to Policing Terrorism in the United States" by Carl Jensen and Andrew Bringuel, to be published in an academic journal. Mr. Bringuel is an FBI SSA assigned to the Behavioral Science Unit and has likely submitted this article for review through FBI channels

5) An article titled "The Intelligence Analyst Training Corps: A ROTC-style Program for the Intelligence Community" by Carl Jensen to be submitted to an academic journal.

Thanks so much for everything and I hope all is well! It actually snowed [REDACTED]

Re: Screenplay: [REDACTED]

Dear [REDACTED]

This letter is in response to your request of June 5, 2012, for review of the above referenced screenplay for publication pursuant to the Federal Bureau of Investigation's (FBI) Prepublication Review Policy (PRP) and Prepublication Review Manual (POL05-001-RMD).

Your submission was reviewed pursuant to the terms of the PRP and we concluded that none of the information presented falls within a restricted area of disclosure. Therefore, there is no objection to the publication of your screenplay, as presented.

You may include your FBI employment as part of your biographical data, providing that the FBI is given no more emphasis than other similar biographical information.

Note that this review is conducted per policy outlined in the FBI Prepublication Review Manual and does not constitute approval by the FBI for you to engage in actual publication, sale or other use of the publication. Our findings have only considered the type and implications of release of information contained in your screenplay with regards to Bureau publication and Security policy. Your publication must also comply with the Standards of Ethical Conduct for the Executive Branch, including any applicable limitations on compensation. Compliance with prepublication review policy does not relieve you from the obligation to comply with other applicable FBI and Office of Government Ethics regulations or policies that may apply to your proposed or possible use of this submitted work. Prior to taking any further action with respect to this work consider all applicable regulations, with particular attention to the following:

- MAOP §§1-9, 1-16 and 20-6; 5 C.F.R. §§2635.802 and 803 (Participation in Non-Federal Entities and Outside Employment);
- MAOP §1-18; (Political Activities);
- MAOP §1-27; 5 C.F.R. §2635.805 (Service as an Expert Witness);
- MAOP §1-16.2; 5 C.F.R. §2635.807 (Teaching, Speaking and Writing); and,
- MAOP §20-28.3; (Administration and Requirements of PTAP).

PREPUB-8544

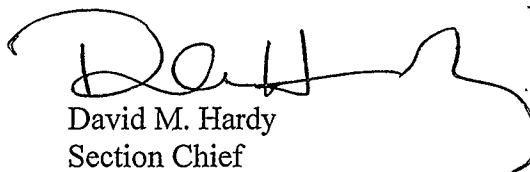

2012 06-18 349

As your work may also impact the mission of the Office of Public Affairs, a copy of this letter and your work have been forwarded to that office for their information.

Should you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact [redacted] at 540-868-1697 or via e-mail at [redacted]. Thank you for your participation in the FBI's prepublication review process.

David Meirhofer

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

David G. Meirhofer (June 8, 1949 – September 29, 1974)^[2] was an American serial killer who committed four murders in rural Montana between 1967 and 1974 — three of them children. At the time, the Federal Bureau of Investigation was developing a new method of tracking killers called offender profiling, and Meirhofer was the first serial killer to be caught using the technique.^[3] Offender profiling is a method used to learn clues about the characteristics of an unknown killer from evidence at the scene of the crime.^[4]

Crimes

Among Meirhofer's victims was seven-year-old Susan Jaeger, who was taken from her tent at night during a family camping trip. He left no ransom request^[5] and no physical evidence.^[6] However, the offender profiling technique, which was first used in this case, was employed about a year after the kidnapping. The technique led investigators to suspect that the kidnapper was a young, white male who killed for sexual gratification and may have kept body parts of victims as "souvenirs". Further, they believed that the killer may have been arrested for other crimes.^[4]

Meirhofer was 23 years old at the time and suspected in another murder. He denied the charges.^[4] Meirhofer placed a telephone call to Marietta Jaeger, the mother of Susan Jaeger, exactly a year after the kidnapping, and she obtained enough information to help the FBI track him down.^[7]

Meirhofer had killed Suzie Jaeger, two boys, and a woman.^[6] In September 1974, he confessed to having kidnapped the woman, Sandra Dykman Smallegan, in her sleep during February of that same year.^[1] Smallegan had once dated Meirhofer, but had ended the relationship.^[1]

On September 29, 1974, Meirhofer committed suicide by hanging himself in his cell in the Gallatin County, Montana jail, four hours after confessing to the murders.^[1]

Victims

- Bernard L. Poelman, age 13, on March 19, 1967, in Gallatin County, Montana.^[8]
- Michael E. Raney, age 12, on May 7, 1968, in Yellowstone County, Montana.^[9]
- Susan Jaeger, age 7, on June 25, 1973, in Gallatin County, Montana.^{[10][11]}
- Sandra D. Smallegan, age 19, on February 10, 1974, in Gallatin County, Montana.^{[12][13]}

CRIMINAL MINDS & METHODS

Criminal Profiling: Part 1 History and Method

BY Katherine Ramsland

The BSU

Former profiler Robert Ressler calls the BSU Hoovers last positive legacy, although others have noted that only with his death was the way cleared for real emphasis on psychology. When it opened in 1972, the Behavioral Science Unit was initially formed with eleven agents, and Jack Kirsch was their first official chief. DeNevi and Campbell describe the tentative early steps. (Their history is sometimes inaccurate when they discuss cases, but its the first to offer a comprehensive account of the personalities of those innovators who made the BSU what it is today.) While the BSU offered advice to local law enforcement on different types of crimes, serial murder would become their forte. Kirsch, a former police training coordinator, served for eight months, followed by John Pfaff.

Robert K. Ressler

Howard Teten, also a member, had already toyed with the idea of criminal profiling, and had included some of the ideas in his NA course, Applied Criminology. Upon meeting with Dr. Brussel and also having some success of his own, he made profiling a more central component of his training. Although Teten disagreed with Brussels Freudian interpretations, he accepted other tenets of the analysis. With the energetic Special Agent Patrick Mullany, who had an advanced degree in psychology, Teten designed a method for analyzing unknown offenders in unsolved cases. He would look at the behavioral manifestations at a crime scene for evidence of aberrant mental disorders and other personality traits and then use that information to make deductions. Eventually, his ideas on specific crimes were much in demand.

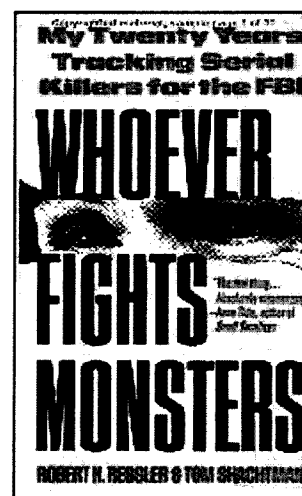

The initial BSU staff handpicked agents that seemed to have a knack for behavioral analysis, and as the demand on their time and the daily exposure to brutal crimes became more intense, they developed a strong camaraderie. With the pressure for greater analytic sophistication, many of them began to specialize. Hazelwood, for example, went into sadistic sexual crimes and autoerotic fatalities, while Dick Lanning focused on child abuse and investigated alleged satanic ritual abuse.

As the various members went out to local jurisdictions to teach, they helped to solve many puzzling cases.

Among these was one from Montana in 1973-74. As time went on, the analysis appeared to the local cops to be a failure but actually ended up as a spectacular, albeit tragic, success. DeNevi and Campbell provide the details. The kidnapping of a 7-year-old girl yielded no physical evidence but a viable suspect, David Meirhofer. Yet he was well-groomed, courteous, and educated, and he passed a polygraph. Although they eventually got him for killing a young woman in the area, he would not confess to knowing anything about the little girl. The local police who had consulted the profilers were ready to pass on him, but the BSU team who had looked at the crime remained convinced that Meirhofer was the guy. After killing the child, whom he kept imprisoned for a period of time, he did confess and also added the murder of two boys. Then he committed suicide. The profilers were sadly vindicated.

Requests for consultations started to come in from police departments around the country, so more agents were trained, and that became the Crime Analysis and Criminal Personality Profiling Program. By 1977, the unit had a substantial identity, comprised of a three-pronged purpose: crime scene analysis, profiling, and analysis of threatening letters.

The profilers did not go to every case of serial murder (and still do not) but only those into which they were invited or that clearly involved federal crimes. Even so, thanks to the NA training programs, they had made good contacts with graduates who acknowledged their skills and were eager to get an experienced perspective. Many jurisdictions rarely even had a homicide, let alone a series of them, so to have professionals who had seen many such crimes and crime scenes available was often considered a boon.

Whoever Fights Monsters

Robert K. Ressler, among the early agents to enter the new program and author of the second book to be published on the unit, describes his early experience in Whoever Fights Monsters. John Douglas, who joined in 1979 and eventually became unit chief, followed that with the bestselling Mindhunter, and several others have since added their own contributions to the pool of materials.

But who are those guys?
